Colorful and fragrant, the flowers last a long time and the bulbs may be left in the ground to bloom year after year. Plant them 6 or 7 inches deep.

In our San Francisco climate we set the pots in bright daylight, outdoors, until the flower truss begins to show color. The exhibition size are best for this purpose. They grow very large trusses and are usually of perfect form. Exhibition Hyacinths may also be grown in the garden in mass plantings where they will make a grand display.

Grow Bulbs in Pots With HALLAWELL'S BULB FIBRE

Anyone can grow bulbs in pots with excellent results. We grow them every year for demonstration purposes, especially Narcissi, Hyacinths, Crocus, Freesias, Sparaxis, Muscari, etc. Of the larger bulbs such as Narcissi, plant 4 or 5 in a 6- or 7-inch pot. Of the smaller bulbs put many in a pot, plant them close together and about 1 inch deep. Moisten the bulb fibre before planting and keep it moist after.

In our San Francisco climate, best results are obtained by setting the pot or bowl of bulbs out in the garden where it will be in bright daylight and cool. Leave it there until the first buds appear ready to open, then take it into the house. In most severe climates it may be too cold to leave them in the garden but we think it is important to keep them cold if they are stored indoors.

Bulb fibre may also be used for planting in bowls without drainage and it contains all the necessary plant food.

1½ pounds of Bulb Fibre will fill a 7-inch pot. You may use it again by adding fertilizer.

Hallawell's RANUNCULUS

Charming double flowers in varied shades of red, yellow, orange, pink and white. They grow 12 to 15 inches high and are very satisfactory for cutting. Set them 2 inches deep, 5 or 6 inches apart each way and with the claws pointing downward. Keep them thoroughly moist, but not soggy wet. In other words good deep irrigation and not too frequent surface sprinkling. In heavy soils, add a little sand and leafmold or other organic.

LILY GROWING

You can succeed with lilies in your garden if you will give them some of the conditions they have in their natural habitat, for example, you'll always find lilies in a deep, porous soil with plenty of organic. Dig deep and mix a generous portion of leaf mold, peat or compost into your soil. Lilies prefer cool soil in which to spread their roots and you can provide this by planting in partial shade, also by using a surface mulch of strawy manure. They need good drainage so you may need to place stones or other materials deep under the beds. Lilies do not like the wind, so plant on the protected side of the house or among shrubs, or under tall trees. Plant them to the depth suggested in the description of each variety and put a layer of rotted manure about six inches below the level at which the bulbs will be set. This may seem like a bit of trouble, but lilies are worth it. You'll be proud of the results if you haven't grown them before.

CLEAN HEALTHY BULBS

Our lilies are all home grown and are positively free from mosaic or other lily diseases. Keep them clean and healthy, do not plant them near other lilies or in soil where other lilies were grown.

NOTES ON GLADIOLUS CULTURE

Gladiolus are easy to grow. They give best results in rich soil, a sunny location and a good deep irrigation once every week or 10 days. Dig in some fertilizer at time of planting and another application on the surface when they are a foot high.

Important—To prevent thrips on gladiolus begin spraying when the plants are 6 inches high and again every 10 days until the flower buds begin to show color. We suggest DURA DUST No. 50 which is 50% wettable DDT. In addition to thrips prevention Dura Dust is also very effective in the control of cutworms, earwigs, sow bugs, ants, etc., and for codling moth on apples and pears.

1 lb. pkg. $1.00 ($1.25 packed and postpaid)
When you cut gladiolus leave some of the foliage to store food for the next year. When the foliage is yellowed, dig and store the bulbs in a dry place and dust them with Gladiolus Dust. 2 oz. pkg. 30c, postpaid. This is a DDT Dust which prevents insect infestation during the storage period.

HALLAWELL'S CALIFORNIA WILD FLOWER SEED

A MIXTURE OF HARDY, EASILY GROWN VARIETIES

Wild flowers are beautiful in all regions. In California they come in such great variety that visitors from other states always want to send some "to the folks back home".

Successive sowings of Wild Flower seed will provide bloom almost the year round in California, especially in the cooler regions and if the plants can be watered. Although they respond best to careful soil preparation, scatter-plantings are successful if the seed is sown at seasons when the plants will have benefit of rainfall. In areas where wild shrubs abound, it is better to concentrate your efforts on the clear places and assure success by scarifying the soil to make it easier for the seeds to take root.

One ounce of seed will sow 150 to 200 square feet in a home garden planting, while one pound to 5,000 square feet is recommended for a city lot—broadcast planting. For hillside or field planting, 5 to 8 pounds per acre, depending upon the existing growth of wild shrubs. Mix an equal quantity of sand or soil to aid the distribution.
